

Types of Trading Accounts in Otet Markets

Otet Brokerage offers 5 types of trading accounts on the MetaTrader (MT5) platform and one account on the cTrader platform. Cryptocurrencies can be traded with leverage of 2. Here, we will explain how to access these accounts and detail their specifications and features.

Note that on the MetaTrader platform, you can open up to four real accounts of any type, and on the cTrader platform, you can open up to three real accounts. This limit does not include your demo trading accounts. If you need to open more accounts, you can send a request to the technical department through a support ticket. To learn how to submit a ticket, you can read the tutorial on Sending a Message to Support \(link\).

1. On the first page of the site (www.OtetMarket.com), from the menu, click on the "Trading" option. A drop-down menu will open; from there you can view the information of the trading accounts you want.

Note: MetaTrader 5 and cTrader are two of the most popular trading platforms globally, with each being chosen based on the user's needs and preferences. MetaTrader 5 offers a straightforward user interface along with a wide range of tools and features suitable for traders at all levels of experience. On the other hand, cTrader boasts high speed and a plethora of tools, along with the ability to personalize charts according to user preferences.

2. By clicking on the purple button in the middle of the screen (as shown in the image below), you can switch between the two platforms, MetaTrader (MT5) and cTrader, and view the types of trading accounts available on the respective platform, along with their full specifications. These specifications include:

- Minimum deposit amount: The minimum capital required to open a trading account.
- Maximum capital: The maximum amount of capital allowed for a trading account.
- Margin call: A warning indicating that the trading losses have exceeded the permissible limit, prompting the need to increase the account balance.
- Leverage: A multiplier used to amplify the amount deposited in a transaction.
- Spread: The difference between the buying and selling prices for each trading currency pair.
- Commission: A fee charged by the broker for executing transactions and facilitating the exchange process.
- Stop out: When the balance of the trader's account falls below a specified percentage, the broker automatically closes their open trades.
- Base currency: The currency used as the basis for transactions in Otet Brokerage.
- Cashback: A portion of the trading costs returned to the trader.
